

a last look at shelving rock and tree (blue beginnings)

mark so

we, planted here to survey them and moving backward with sips of the tide.

– John Ashbery, “Wastrel”

a fading shore

- rock
- tree

each 3 or 4 times, independent, any overlap briefly plain to begin (not striking, just there) getting longer, fainter, and farther between each time
