

brass duo

mark so

—any 2 brass instruments (sord.) each begins anywhere, proceeding independently, putting space between notes sometimes overlapping, sometimes playing alone (occasionally, a note may be omitted) continue from the beginning once the last note has been played each going through the material any number of times (perhaps not even once through) duration of tones and spaces free; any clef, always free to change long silences possible

notes played where written, as read directly by each instrument comfortably soft throughout
