Pastor Kate Durbin grew up in the Evangelical Christian church, garnering a minor in biblical studies at the Bible Institute of Los Angeles in 2004. She is now a writer, performer, and transmedia artist. She is the author of The Ravenous Audience (Akashic Books), E! Entertainment (Blanc Press Diamond Edition, forthcoming), and co-author of Abra, forthcoming in artists' book and iOS editions. Recently she received an Expanded Artists' Book grant from the Center for Book and Paper Arts at Columbia College Chicago, as well as an &Now Innovative Writing Award. She is founding editor of Gaga Stigmata, an online arts and criticism journal about Lady Gaga. Her tumblr project, Women as Objects, has been featured in T-Mobile's Your Digital Daily, Hyperallergic (resulting in the site's being banned from Facebook), Arcadia Missa, and Bright Stupid Confetti, and she has presented the project at The School of Global Arts Down Under, Cal Arts, the WeHo public library, Otis College, and at other locations, virtual and physical.

Guru Rugu is a celebrated best-selling self-published self-helper from Los Angeles who has changed the lives of millions with his simple but effective experimental meditations. He has worked with many other illustrious experimental healers, artists, and writers, including Veranda Moot and Matador Oven. Guru Rugu has been helping “turn your desperation into inspiration” since 1955 when he helped co-found the Los Angeles Meditation Ghostwriters Guild Local #012, where he still serves as Chief Meditating Officer (CMO) and Intern Coordinator. In 1971, Guru Rugu helped co-found the experimental meditation center of los angeles – which has no center – with artist Adam Overton. Since 2010, Guru Rugu has worked intimately with Signify, Sanctify, Believe, a cute crew of religious technologists and publishing anarchists hearkening from Los Angeles. Guru Rugu currently hosts Guru Rugu's Experimental Meditation Hour on KCHUNG Radio AM1630 every 1st Sunday from 10-11pm and archived at <http://gururugu.kchungradio.org>. He also provides inspirational tweets nearly every day at <http://twitter.com/GuruHRugu>. Though not formally acknowledged, it is well-known that Guru Rugu was the inspiration behind Matador Oven's provocative and influential tract, A Dabblerist Manifesto.
